Sure, here is a project and picture for software development:

Project: Fitness Tracker App

This mobile app will allow users to track their daily fitness activities, set goals, and monitor their progress over time. The app will integrate with wearable devices to collect data on steps taken, distance traveled, calories burned, and sleep patterns.